MR. TAFT'S SENSIBLE WARNING.

Ex-President Taft in his address to the Naonal Geographic Society uttered a sensible when he said:

"The situation is in such a condition that it will be improper for me to comment on it, except to say this: That those who lightly look forward to intervention are either utterly regardless of the loss of life and the expenditure of immense treasure, or else they don't know what armed intervention on the part of this Government in Mexico will mean."

CITIES AS TAXPAYERS.

Floor Leader Mann of the Republican remnant in the House of Representatives voted for the Shackleford road bill. He excused his vote by saying that "the cities can well afford out of their wealth to contribute taxes to aid the country in the construction of roads."

Mr. Mann seems not to know that the cities as a rule already pay a higher percentage of taxes to support state governments than the country districts do. Thus: Cities have urgent need for all the revenue they can get for municipal use. So they assess their citizens' property at a high rate. They pay the State's tax at that high rate. Counis could be very easily and quickly try districts as a rule assess their property at a ding a Federal law to prohibit the low rate, having far less need for local revenue and they pay the State's tax on that low asses

Thus are wasteful laws passed, and justified, in lamentable ignorance, or demagogic defiance, of established facts.

UGENT'S PUSHES TOWARD HALF-CENTURY GOAL WITH A WEEK OF CELEBRATION

Illinois will tell you today that what Byron Nugent lacked in capital or elaborate stock in those early days he had Mabel Moore—How to in credit and nerve, coupled with an everlasting push and energy that to this day is really the backbone of the firm.

His Word His Bond.

Byron Nugent started out to build a great store for the people and a great name for himself. His foundation was his word of honor in all transactions and that word was as the grew faster than to town and his little business pushed is environment clear across the Missippi into Missouri in the short space of four years. At that time St. Louk was a growing city. It was the great gateway to the Southwest. Byron Nugent saw the opportunity that was knocking at his door and answered it.

Byron Nugent laid the corner-stone of the family fame in St. Louis by opening a store at the southeast corner of Broadway and Franklin avenue.

Not Much of a Store Then.
That wasn't a "big" store—23x56.
In fact that first store might be dropped into the basement of the present Nugent store without causing any disturbance. But in those days that a little Nugent store was a downtown feature. There wasn't much of what might be called "uptown" However the little store had town." However the little store had its share of the best trade in the city. The first floor was devoted to the salesroom. On the floor above the stock was marked and kept in reserve.

Little Shop Prospered.
The little shop prospered. It grev so fast that once more its energetic proprietor found business pushing out the sides of the little building. And once more a new site had to d to be se-was to 817 lected. The next move

"My bust measure increased six inches. It will bust measure increased six inches. It will surely do all you claim and more too."
"My bust is filling out since using Dr. Kelly's Formula; it is now three inches larger than it was." declares Rose Traver, and Miss Josie Foncault adds: "Dr. Kelly's Formula is the best remedy for developing the bust. It has developed my bust four inches, and I am feeling better and my complexion is better." Then Mrs. A. Whiting writes: "My bust has changed greatly since using Dr. Kelly's Formula, increasing in both size and Kelly's Formula, increasing in both size and When scores of women living in all parts of this continent, voluntarily testify to an increase in bust development, ranging all the way from an inch or two to six inches or more, given them by Dr. Kelly's treatment, you must admit, Mrs. or Miss Thin and, Scrawny, that there must be some real merit in this Dr. Kelly method of bust developing. Dr. Kelly's method has increased the bust measurement of thousands of women, given firm, full, beautiful bosoms, made the arms round and shapely and the neck and shoulders plump and symmetrical. You don't have to believe in this treatmen; in order to develop; doubt its power all you want, but just take doubt its power all you want, but just take it and watch the hollows vanish and your figure round out to pleasing proportions. plished by S. S. S. It is usually some stubborn case of an indolent blood eruption, or some skin affliction that long defied all other treatment. The cold ear, trained to a special school, is indifferent to the enthusiasm of the so-called layman. But the actual experience, the obvious proof, the living witness is at least a message of hope to anyone that is similarly afflicted. And, after all, to purify the blood is not so much a question of probability as it is one of good judgment and persistency in the selection and use of an appropriate remedy. The fact that S. S. S. is a vegetable preparation with pronounced catalytic effect means volumes to those who actually require a blood purifier. In a condition of perfect health the system takes care of itself.

This means that impurities absorbed by the skin are checked and made harmless by secretions selected by nature to render the peculiar service. It also means that the digestive system will soon adjust itself to temporary derangement by the innate power of elimination.

Mrs. Doxey-Whitney weighs 15 pounds more than she did when she began her sentence, and has improved in health hrough her abstinence from morphine During her time in jail, she amused her self with a flirtation with Earl Wheel er, a prisoner. Her notes to Wheeler which were intercepted by the jailer discussed a plan for abandoning Whit-ney and cloping with Wheeler. Mrs. Doxey left her husband, Dr. L. B. Doxey, in Columbus, Neb., in 1909, and, coming to St. Louis, married Willand, coming to St. Louis, married Wil-liam J. Erder, a postoffice clerk. He died under mysterious circumstances, and she collected his life insurance and went back to Doxey. Erder's sister, Miss Kate Erder, followed, up the matter and Mrs. Doxey was srrested on a charge of having poisoned Erder. She was acquitted here in June 1910, and was arrested by the St. Louis County authorities on the bigamy charge. After a long delay, many continuances, the drowning of Doxey and her marriage to Whitney, the woman came to St. Louis sick, on a stretcher and compromised with the prosecution by pleading guilty and taking the threemonths sentence. She hoped to spend the whole time in the hospital, but the hospital authorities soon ordered her transferred to the jall.

Electrical fireworks, wind and rain enhanced the spectacle of a fire which last night turned into a fourstory retort of blazing rubber the building occupied by the Day Rubber Co. at 415-17 North Fourth street, and cost the life of one fireman. ## Text of Bond Expert's Opinion Upholding Legality of Initiatii

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—City Cour sellor William E Baird of St. Louis will start for home tomorrow morn-ing carrying with him the opinion of ing carrying with months of Clay, upholding the right of the city of St. Louis to issue bonds under the initiative clause to the city charter. The opinion was written by Judge Dillon, the aged expert whose views on bonds are

To Hon. Henry W. Kiel, Mayor,

It follows:

St. Louis, Mo.: Dear Sir-There has been submitted to us an amendment to the charter of St. Louis, adopted Nov. 5, 1912, providing for the enactment of ordinances by initi-ative petition, and our opinion has been requested as to the effect and scope of this charter amendment under the following

A movement is on foot by bodies A movement is on foot by booles of citizens, who have organized themselves for the purpose, to cause petitions to be circulated for proposing by initiative petition an ordinance requiring an election to be held on the question of submitting to the possible. tion and the second of the people tion of submitting to the people bonds to the amount of $2,750,000 for the completion of the new pricipal bridge of the city relationships o tition and as to the procedure to be followed thereunder. 1. There is no provision of the souri specifically reserving to the people of the various municipali-ties or political subdivisions the power of enactment by initiative on local matters. By an amendment to the Constituion of Missouri, adopted Nov. 8, 1908, provision was made for the enact-ment of statutes upon the initia tive of the voters of the State (Const. Art. 4, Sec. 57). But this section of the Constitution does not make any specific provision for the exercise of the initiative in matters of local legislation. By Section 20 to 25 of Article 9 of the Constitution, provision is made by which the city of Six Louis is given the power to frame its own charter end to amend the its own charter end to amensame without intervention of Legislature. By virtue of provisions the city of St. I may adopt and amend its charter and any and mants thereto must be in mony with the Constitution laws of Missouri.

is in harmony with the policy of the Constitution above referred to expressly authorizing the peo-ple of the State to enact laws ple of the State to enact laws by the initiative.

By the amendment to the Con-stitution of Missouri, adopted Nov. 3, 1903, the people of the State definitely committed them-selves to this possible means of enacting laws. The people of St. Louis have been given the power by the people of Missouri to adopt a charter and to amend the same and a charter pro-vision authorizing the people to the same and a charter pro-vision authorizing the people to enact ordinances by the initia-tive not only does not violate any provision of the Constitu-tion, but is in keeping with the method of legislation provided by the people for the enactment of laws. We are of the opinion, therefore, that the City of St. Louis has the power to adopt a provision in its charter for the enactment of ordinances by the

2. The question arises whether it will be necessary under the charter amendment for the enactment of ordinances by the in-itiative to have two elections in connection with the proposed is-sue of bonds, i. e., an election on the question of the adoption of the ordinance prescribing the "manner of holding such election, the form of question to be submitted and form of ballot and the method of conducting, can-vassing and declaring the result of such election and all other procedings and things as may be necessary or proper." (Charter, Article 3, Section 26, Clause 1); and later, an election on the question of the issuance of bonds.

Cites Charter Previsions.

The provisions of the charter mendment for the enactment of oran election on the question whether and upon that question a majority of the qualified electors voting on the ordinance is sufficient to give it effect, while on the question of issuing the bonds, by constitutional pro-vision. a two-thirds vote of all persons voting at the election is required. When the ordinance is proposed by initiative petition and be-fore the election is held, it must be submitted to the Municipal Assemsubmitted to the Municipal Assembly, which may pass it without submitting it to the voters. The orginance so proposed cannot be submitted to the people for adoption until it has been submitted to the Municipal Assembly and that body has failed to enact it. We have carefully considered whether it is possible to avoid the necessity of two elections and whether in the event that the ordinance be carried by the constitutional majority of two-thirds of the voters voting at the election under the provisions of section 12 of article 10 of the Constitu-tion, relating to the incurring of in-debtedness, such vote would not be compliance with all the requirenents of the Constitution and charter. The conclusion which we have reached is that by reason of the fact that an ordinance proposed by initia-tive must be submitted to the Mu-nicipal Assembly before being sub-mitted to the voters, it is impracticamitted to the voters, it is impractica-ble to follow any course other than to have an election first on the adoption of such ordinance, and thereafter a second election on the restion of the issuance of the onds. The application of legal principles also leads to the conclu-sion that no other course is au-

ized by the charter amendment Two Elections Necessary.
The ordinance which is proposed by the initiative petition is ntended to take the place of the preliminary ordinance required by article 3, section 26, clause 1 of the City Charter, to be adopted to prescribe the manner of holding the election, the form of the question to be submitted, etc., and the adoption of an ordinance preliminary to the holding of the election on the question of issuing the bonds is, in our epinion, requirel. It will, therefore in our opinion, be necessary first to adopt the initiative ordi-nance prescribing the manner of holding the election, the form of the question to be submitted, etc., and thereafter to hold an elec-tion pursuant to that ordinance on the question of issuing the

25. If an initiative petition signed by 25 per cent of the voters at the last Mayoralty election is presented to the Board of Election Commissioners in due course and by them approved and transmitted to the Municipal Assembly, we are of the opinion hat it is the mandatory duty of Municipal Assembly within 40 days after submission to call a s after submission to call a 30 days after presentation of the petition. In view of the fact that the duty imposed upon the Mu-nicipal Assembly to provide for an election is mandatory, the Mu-nicipal Assembly would doubt-less immediately direct an electitioners, would, in our opinion, be entitled to mandamus to com-pel action by the Municipal As-

If, therefore, we find that all the proceedings have been taken in regular and due form as rea regular and due form as re-paired by the constitution, stat-sies and charter, and that the sonds have been voted by two-hirds of the voters voting at an election held by authority of an ordinance adopted under initia-tive potition, we do not, as now wheel, see any reason why we uld not be able to approve the litty of the bonds.

LESSON No. 3

WE grant that these movements will not at first be found too simple, but, after all, is a real satisfaction to be derived from learning a dance the intricacies of which can be mastered in ten minutes?

The best advice to give Tangoists at the very start is to see to it that the time of the tune from which they study the various movements is absolutely correct.

Never confuse Tango movements with ragtime movements — a mistake, by the way, which, strangely enough, is quite a common one.

Every Tango enthusiast, of course, knows that the music of the dance is founded on the Habanera, a popular Spanish piece written in 2-4 time.

THIRD FIGURE (The Eight): The gentleman starts with his right foot, croises' the left foot in front of the right, and brings the right back to the side of the left, a little forward. Then he puts the left foot forward to the left, croises' the right on the left, and brings back the left foot beside the right foot and a little behind. He next recommences this figure and ends with a chasse' of

As a piano, The Autopiano's tone is one of purity and power. As a player-piano, it empowers you to play every composition ever written. There are no limitations to the artistic possibilities of a rendition on The Autopiano.

Homes that never knew music are being transformed in a day into temples of musical happiness.

Homes that gave space to pianos that were more the embodiments of unrequited longings than the music-giving instruments for which they were intended, are experiencing the musical fulfillments they never otherwise could composers, musicians and prima donnas have endors and written letters of recognition for The Autopia How much more will The Autopiano mean to you perhaps have not the other means of musical enjoym and study which these artists possess?

The achievements of The Autopiano are verified the many medals and awards accorded it at Internat Exhibitions where rivalry is always keen, and by viduals high in public life whose approbation is ea sought for every musical instrument of repute. Thusiastic commendation which The Autopiano has ited, and the many medals of honor, all add wei the evidence which you will surely establish in fr The Autopiano once you know by personal investits splendid capabilities.

mrs. Edward M. Gould, of 4628 Berlin avenue, wife of the president of the Gould Directory Co., and her sister, Mrs. Mabel Hodgman, recently divorced from Manny Hodgman, a stockbroker, are demanding in a suit before Circuit Judge Kinsey that about $150,000 belonging to the estate of their father, Daniel S. Holmes, be treated as income and livided between them.

They are opposed by Charles Cummings Collins as guardian for Mrs. Hodgman's son, Daniel, 12 years old, who declares it should be applied on the principal of the estate.

Holmes died in 1901. His will placed his property in trust of the St. Leuis Union Trust Co. and provided that his wife and the two-daughters resolve the income. After the death of such beneficiaries, the trust estate, the will provided, should go to their descendants. The main part of the estate consists of a hall interest in mining land in Jasper County, Mo., and in stock in the St. Joseph and Doe Run Lead companies.

Dividends Ameunt to $125,000. Senator Tells Financier He Defends Harvester Combine Because He Got $5,000,000.

THE CRIME Borah, Senator from Idaho, in a letter to George W. Parkins, organizer of the International Harvester Co., made pub-lic tonight, accuses Mr. Perkins of de-fending "one of the most unconscion-able and shameless monopolies in this country—the Harvester Trust," because Senator Borah's letter is in reply to one from Perkins criticising the re-marks of the Senator at the Republican marks of the Senator at the Republican, or, last Thursday, in which the Idaho Senator declared Perkins and the Progressive party defended monopoly.

Perkins wrote to Senator Borah, stating that he did not believe, as had been represented by the Senator from Idaho, that monopoly was aggood thing. Assails Harvester Trust.

"Immediately after denying that you believe in monopoly," said Senator Bo-rah in his reply, "you enter upon a most vigorous defense of one of the most vigorous detense of one of the most unconscionable and shameless mo-nopolies in this country, the Harves-ter Trust. You and I and thousands with me simply differ as to what constitutes a monopoly. This combination, which, as I understand, you organized and out of which you took, as I am informed, between $5,000,000 and $7,000,000, was a monopoly and intended to be a monopoly. A scheme or plan by which one man can impose upon a great mul-titude of people of this country the bur-den of a great fortune is monopoly. You do not think so. Well, that is natural for you got the $5,000,000."

Another characteristic of the Harves ter company, the letter states, is the "inhuman way in which it worked and treated its employes." "The perfectly repulsive scenes which those who visited its works were permitted to witness, the letter adds, "would cause one to wonder where its chief financial backer and most powerful director deposited his altruistic impulses and his unspeakable emotions for humanity in general when he visited his plant."

Senator Borah refers to testimony be fore the State Factory Investigating Committee as to this plant, to show that women employes got as low as $5 and

"When your attention was called this," he adds, "you are reported as saying: 'This night work has been ren dered necessary largely by the Govern toward large corporations.'

"Utterly Unfeeling Master." "Now, sir, if you will take into con-ideration the tremendous fortune which you took out of this combination the oppressed and depressed conditions and poverty-stricken wage of its em-ployes and your crisp and cynical comment, it occurs to me that you not only have here all the characteristics and workings of a monopoly, but you have its utterly unfeeling master who is always willing to defend his position and to deny that he is engaged in such practices, while at the same time wrenching every dollar from the employes and consumer that an ingeniou mind can contrive to get hold of." Senator Borah dwells on Perkins' con-nection with the United States Steel Corporation, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. and the brought out in committee hearings, and

"According to your views there is not a monopoly in the United States and never could be, and, according to your views, whatever they may be, the at tempt of the Government to destroy them is outrageous and results, as understand you, in compelling monopoly to pay women $5 a week."

The Stroud Pianola

There is only one player you can ever learn to play and that is the Pianola.

No other player has the necessary devices for teaching you how to play pleasingly and artistically.

It is the custom of some piano salesmen to attempt to confuse the term "Pianola" with the term Player-Piano. "Pianola" is the trade mark of the player action patented and built by the Aeolian Company—the one supremely successful player-action.

Player-Piano' is a general term that may apply to any commercial player-action installed in any piano.

The Pianola is obtainable in Saint Louis nowhere but at Acolian Hall. Do not be misled!

The Pianola is built in but six models, Steinway, Stroud, Wheelock, Stuyvesant, Steck and Weber.

Of these the Stroud is the latest creation of the great Aeolian organization. It sells for

The Metrostyle - Music's lifeline is exclusive to the Pianola

By means of this wonderful device it is possible for any composer to show you in your own home exactly how to interpret every phrase of his composition.

The greatest living composers—and some who have passed away—have dictated this priceless information in the form of the Metrostyle line on Pianola rolls of their compositions.

At the left is illustrated an autographed Metrostyle interpretation of Madam Cecil Chaminade.

By following the Metrostyle line-the red line exclusive to Metrostyle Pianola rolls-you may, in your own home, exactly reproduce the delicate phrasing characteristic of Chaminade's own playing.

The Metrostyle is a wavy red line found only upon

Metrostyle Pianola rolls. By following this line with a pointer connected with the Tempo lever of the Pianola the Metrostyle's lines on that particular roll is reproduced by

On every ordinary player roll as well a Pianola rolls there is a dotted black line, but this should not be confused in any way with the Metrostyle, which is red, and is found only on Pianola rolls. The dotted black line gives only general instructions for an entirely different purpose and is on every player roll.

- Until you have yourself tried the marvellous Metrostyle you cannot appreciate its tremendous importance to you Through this wonderful and yet very simple device the world's masters of melody stand ready to teach you exactly. how best to play.

You are invited to visit Acolian Hall and for yourself to play upon the Pianola any composition you may choose. The Metrostyle line will show you things you have perhaps never dreamed possible.

Never until the invention of the Metrostyle was it possible for. composer to indicate precisely the phrasing intended for every barnay, every smallest grouping of notes. It is not possible by arknown method to show on sheet music the delicate tempo chang which are clearly indicated by the Metrostyle line on Pianola rolls. For musicians and for novices, alike, this is of vital importance.

Admiral von Diederichs Declares American Admiral "Backed Down" in Manila Bay.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Admiral vot Diederichs replied in print today to the statements made by Admiral Dewey regarding the exciting inci-dents between the American and Ger-man naval commanders in Mantla Bay during the Spanish-American War. The reply is published in the offi-cial Marine Rundschau and is spread over 11,000 words. It contains the report of the visit made to Admiral Dewy July 10, 1898, by the then Flag Lieutenant von Hintze, who is now German Minister to Mexico. It is evident from this report that Admiral Dewey threatened the Germans with war if they did not cease their inter-ference with the blockade regulations and if thy refused to permit the Americans to make the inquiries necessary to establish the identity of

Says Dewey Threatened War.
Von Diederichs says:
"Admiral Dewey graduaily talked himself into a passion. He maid 'Why,
I shall stop every vessel, whatever may be her colors. And if she does not stop, I shall fire at her. And that means war, do you know, sir.' When the phrase, 'if Germany wants war,' etc., occurred again, I took my Admiral von Diederichs makes the comment that Admiral Dewey must have known a declaration of war did not depend on either Admiral. He attributes Admiral Dewey's conduct toward Flag Lieutenant von Hintze to nervousness arising from the weight of responsibility resting on him as com-mander of the blockading fleet and from the rumors reaching him in regard to the falsity of the Germans.

The German Admiral promptly tool

up Admiral Dewey's assertion that it was his right and duty to communicate was his right and duty to communicate with all vessels entering the port of Manila and to make such inquiries as were necessary to establish their identity. Admiral Dewey had declared that the showing of colors by the vessels was inadequate, since the display of false colors was a common ruse in

The correspondence between Admiral Dewey, Admiral von Diederichs and Admiral Chichester of the British fleet is reproduced literally. On July 11 1898, the German Admiral denied Admiral Dewey's right of visitation and eign commanders to ascertain their

According to the German commander, the French, Austrian, Japanese and British commanders shared his opinion, although Admiral Chichester required some persuasion and endeaver's pretensions were justified.

The letter of July 12, from Admiral von Diederichs to Admiral Dewey, which ends the correspondence, shows that the two commanders were substantially in accord in regard to the procedure in connection with warships According to the German commander procedure in connection with warships arriving at Manila.

The variance of opinion was chiefly as to the interpretation of the word "inquiries," which the German Adniral interpreted as an investigaion to establish the truth of neutral commander's word.

In his letter, Admiral von Dieder-che accepts Admiral Dewey's disavowal of the claim to the right of visiting neutral warships and accepts his pretension of a right to ener into communication with ships sming into Manila Bay. This was done by signal, hailing or the ex-change of visits, but not by sending fficers on board the neutral war-

Vessels Cleared for Action.

Admiral von Diederichs sent the Cruiser Kaiserin Augusta to meet the reach Manila, and to inform her of he situation. The two vessels, according to a letter from a German petty officer but the Americans did not attempt to demand their identification. This incident, says Admiral von Diederichs, cleared him of the suspicion of yielding a hair's breadth to Admiral Dewey's demands. He had not ordered the vessels to clear for otion, he said. The relations betwen the German and American Admirals afterwards were more friendly. Finally, on July 31, the text of the German-American agreement made in Wash-ington, reached him, according to which the names of German warships must be communicated through diplomatic channels before their arrival in the blockaded harbor. Afterward, it was necessary to signal only the name of the ship upon passing the blockade. In summing up the matter, Admiral yon Diederichs says: "Admiral Chi-chester expressed the opinion that Admiral Dewey had been suspicious of the Germans by outside influencesnamely, Manila gossip—but more or less malicious reports coming from the shore cannot explain an incident like that described by Flag Lieuten-ant von Hintze, which is exceptional in the intercourse of representatives

About this time Senator Gilbert M Hitchcock, in company with "Bat" Koehler, Maj. Koehler's brother from Nebraska, called at the War Depart-ment. They asked the Secretary not to accept the resignation of Maj.-Koehler, saying the charges against him were a "frame-up," and that certain influences at Fort Terry were at work trying to ruin his reputation. The Secretary agreed to have another investigation made in advance of trial. The second investigator also advised a court-mar-

Captain Mayes made this investigation. Gen. Barry, because of the nature of the charges, ordered that there be no publicity attached to the trial. To prevent this he erfered that all newspaper men be barred from the court-room. The Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch asked flearestary Garrison that the trial be opened to the public. Secretary Garrison said he did not care to interfere with the trial, but, after making an investigation, he but, after making an investigation, he issued an order for an open session of Garrison's Attitude.

Immediately Gen. Barry requested that such an order be withdrawn. The court itself telegraphed the Secretary that there were certain witnesses for Maj. Kochier who, the defense believed, if forced to testify in the open, would be influenced so the testimony would be detrimental' to the defendant, and forwarded a request from the accused that the public be excluded from the trial. Secretary Garrison made reply that he did not desire to interfere with the court's discretion.

Maj. Kochier was born in Illinois and appointed to West Point from Nebraska. He was graduated June 15, 1833, and was assigned to the infantry. In 1835 he was transferred at his own request to the artillery corps.

On July 5, 1837, he was appointed a Captain of the Thirty-seventh United States Volunteer Infantry. In April, 1900, he was promoted to be a Major in the Volunteers, and Feb. 20, 1801, was mustered and returned to the regular establishment. In August, 1801, he was promoted to be a Captain in the artillery corps. He was promoted to be Major of artillery, July 25, 1811.

At the time of his alleged oftenses he was in command at Fort Terry, which is in Long Island Sound.

Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods, rubbing on useless on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods, rubbing on useless with greasy foods, rubbing on useless it leaves to following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You casned set fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new Scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol, and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its regenerative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissuiced your bods. You can read transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmiess, inexpensive, efficient. Judge & Dolph, Weipert Drug Co. Rabeteau, Wolff-Wilson, Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and other leading druggists of St. Louis and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfed, as per the guarantee found in every package.

The receipts of hogs were good but nothing like liberal. There was a good many poor grade pigs and lights on the market early in the week, but the middle and latter part of the week the offerings were quite good, as a large proportion of them were from lowa or that portion of good hogs. The market was up and down without any great change ut the close of the week.

The top ranged between $8.500 for the week sold at $8.6508.80. Both the bulk and top of the market was the highest in the West, being around a dime above Chicago each day. It was the strong shipping demand that held prices on the high basis with the assistance of the city butchers. Steady Gain in Sheep.

Just a fair supply of sheep was received and the market was on the call stock and bond issues at the week-end session of the local Stock Exchange, yesterday. Prices were about unchanged from the preceding call.

Bankers' Trust sold at $185 and National Bank of Commerce was wanted at unchanged figures at $180 and offered at $132.50. Third National Bank at $250 bid, without offers.

United Railways stocks were quiet and prices about steady, but the swere offered at $71, after a sale at unchanged figures at $100 and offered. Fair to medium lambs sold at $7,750 site of year of the provious week, and the prices in several weeks. Western and mexican lambs sold at $7,750 site of year of y went at $4.04.40 and bucks at $4.75 %.

Horse and Mule Trade Slow.

There was a light supply of horses and mules received each day, but the runs were of sufficient volume to supply the current needs. The East-ern states did not buy horses as liberally as usual and values were on the decline. Chunks and drafters were best sellers. The Southern trade was slow and draggy this week, as buyers falled to show up and those who were here had no trouble in getting their supplies at lower values. There was a poor trade in the mule market and there was little doing. The weather kept many buyers at home and dealers did not come to the receiving harns to replenish their supply. Shippers should keep their mules in the country, at least till the weather breaks.

SATURDAY'S COMPARATIVE FUTURE QUOTATIONS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Snow's report of farm stocks makes amount of corn still in farmers' hands 82,000,000 bu, against 1,882,000,000 a year ago and 750,000,000 similarly held in 1912. On the production of production SNOW'S REPORT.

a figure exceeded but once in the past five rears.

Farm stocks of oats are returned at 380,000,000 bu, against 587,000,000 last year and 222,000,000 in 1912. On the basis of the Government figures of production the reserve would be about 405,000,000 bu, against 604,000,000 last year. The present reserve has been exceeded but twice in the past six years. The farm consumption of oats since Aug. I has been relatively much heavier than that of corn, by reason of substitution for that cereal. The consumption from the present crop to date amounts to 793,000,000 bu, against 881,000,000 last year, when oats were cheap and abundant and has been 100,000,000 greater than it was in 1910-13.

Wheat futures developed a bullish flavor in the early trading last week, then lost it in the late market, when the weather map indicated a higher range of temperatures over the winter wheat belt. Trade was highly professional throughout the week.

There was nothing in the week's cropreports to indicate that winter wheat had been damaged by the recent severe cold weather, for the crop had a heavy snow covering in all directions. It is likely, however, that some minor damage has resulted, which will not show until later, when the growing season is more advanced. The week's statistics were slightly bullish.

The visible supply of wheat in Europe this week amounts to $2,320,000, against 79,784 000 last week, showing an increase of 2,536,000 bu. Last week there was an increase of 700,000, when the total amounted to $9,900,000.

Head of Firm Prostrated by Fi nancial Reverses That Caused Suspension.

FIRM'S CUSTOMERS SUFFER

Bookkeeping by Member of Family Was Not Watched and Failure Was Shock.

After being in business in St. Louis continuously for 43 years the grain commission and exporting firm of Connor Bros. & Co., 506 Merchants' Exchange Building, announced its suspension yesterday.

Patrick P. Connor, more than 70 years old, the head of the firm, is prostrated at his home, 5745 Chamberlin avenue. His brother and part-ner, Michael J. Connor, of 5326 Vernon avenue, wept when he announced the suspension on the floor of the exchange shortly after the market losed at noon.

The firm for years had been one of the principal exporting houses in the Merchants' Exchange membership and also had done a large cash grain business and a considerable volume of future trading.

Financially Embarrassed.

Associated with the Connor brothers in the firm were P. P. Connor's sons, William P. and James A. Connor and Michael J. Connor's son, William M. Connor.

For the first time in many years P. P. Connor did not appear on the floor of the Merchants' Exchange yesterday. He was confined to his bed at the time his brother made nown the firm's suspension.

Michael J. Connor said he would nake no formal statement except that he firm was financially embarrassed and that this was due to reverses in the natural course of business.

At his home P. P. Connor wep:

Friends Advised Suspension. "My son, William P. Connor, had kept the books of the firm for 17 years," said Connor. "As the firm was made up of members of the family I had not required William to make as exact an accounting as I might have demanded from a stranger. For this reason we did not always know just where we stood finan-

"Yesterday I discovered that everything was gone up. I consulted life long friends and they advised me to suspend operations.

"I at once sent out notices to all of our customers for whom we had been carrying grain, notifying them that we would have to sell out their accounts in the open market. We sold about 300,000 bushels of grain in that way yesterday. Our customers will lose as a result of those sales but it was the only way to preven'

"The suspension was caused solely by business reverses and our inability to collect money which some of our customers owed us." P. P. Connor was formerly a direcor of the Merchants' Exchange and had served in turn on every important committee of that organization. He was proud of the fact that he was known as the "youngest old man on Change," although he laughingly objected to the use of the adjective "old" and often said that he was just a young fellow who had reached the age of discretion." Connor for many years was regarded as a very wealthy man and up o the hour when the firm's suspenion was announced few except his closest friends on 'Change knew that his fortune had dwindled.

DANIEL S. NAPLES AND SONS. (c) Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our relatives and friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us during our sad bereavement in the death of my beloved son and dear brother, Joseph H. Schniedermeyer; especially to Father Hukestein and Father Dubbert of St. Augustine's Parish, the pallbearers and the employes of the International Shoe Co. and for the many beautiful floral offerings.

MRS. THEREEA SCHNIEDERMEYER AND FAMILY. (c)

In memory of our dear brother, William L Gander, who departed from us one year ago, Feb. 27, 1918. Sleep on, dear brother, sleep on. Gone but not forgotten. Sad and lonely, missed by

In Memorium.

In loving remembrance of my dear mother, Mrs. Sophia Hazard, who departed this life Feb. 24, 1918. Let us bear the separation till we meet to part no more. Sadly missed by DAUGHTER.

My loving husband, true and kind, He was to me in heart and mind A faithful husband, he was as well When he on earth with me did dwell

Sadly missed by loving FATHER, MOTHER, BROTHER.

DEATHS

Silently the shades of evening Gather round our lonely door; Silently they bring before us That dear face we see no more. One long year has passed,
Still we are grieving for you;
Happy without you we cannot be,
So we go often to your grave.
Lingering there and trying to brave.

But oh, 'tis hard to bear, ...
To go away and leave you there. Sadly missed by his MOTHER, BROTHERS, SISTER. In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear father, Peter Hirt, who departed this life Feb. 19, 1913. No one knows how much we miss you You were so good, so kind and true It's hard to bear that you are miss We sign, we weep, we pray for you Although you are gone you are not forgotten.

Never shall your memory fade.

Loving hearts will often linger Around the grave where you are laid.

Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN. In Memorlam. In loving remembrance of my dear wife, Ida Marie Galle, who departed this life March 4, 1913. There are griefs that cannot find comfort, that cannot be healed;
There are sorrows so deep in the human heart
They cannot be half revealed.

I could not realize what was said When the message came that s was dead. But God, who loved her best, Has taken her home to rest. Sadly missed by her loving HUSBAND. DAUGHTER PARENTS. In Memoriam. AND

In loving remembrance of our deag-ly beloved daughter and sister, Aman-da Heigel, who departed this life March 1, 1908. The moon and stars are shining
Upon a lonely grave,
Where sleeps our dear good daughter,
Whom we loved but could not save. Six years ago she passed away, We grieved when she departed,

Time was too short to say farewell
To the ones she thought of and loved so well.
We miss her coming footsteps,
We miss her everywhere,
Home is not what it used to be
Since our dear Amanda is not there.
Sadly missed by George Eckert of Milistadt, for the second time in a week, literally walked into a fine in Justice Wangelin's office at Belleville. Last Tuesday he went to the Justice's office to swear out warrants against Oliver Merkel and Andrew Diesel. After he had sworn to the warrants he was arrested by Constable Ben Lauts on a warrant issued last October by Constable Frank Deditius of Milistadt, charging him with assault and battery. Eckert paid the fine.

He returned yesterday to Wangelin's office to ascertain when the cases against Diesel and Merkel were to be tried. He was told they had pleaded guilty and paid their fines and also that another warrant hal been issued against him by Constable Deditius, charging him with disturbing the peace. Eckert again pleaded guilty ani was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $13. George Eckert of Millstadt, for the

There is no best breed. Any of the popular breeds, handled properly, will give good results. A comfortable house with the same food in the winter that the fowls can get in the summer on free range and plenty of fresh water, will make them productive. The foods used by successful poultrymen in the winter are mixed grains, fed in litter, plenty of green foods, especially sprouted cats, crumbly mash composed of bran meal and ground alfalfa, with a little beef scrap added twice a week. Feather eating is caused by not feeding enough animal food and insufficient exercise. If you can detect the bird that is eating the feathers remove it from the flock for a few days and trim its beak on the sides so you can look through sideways before you return it to the flock.

NE of the finest and most expensive ermine opera cloaks in the United States is being worn this winter by Miss Edmee Anheuser of St. Louis. It is said to have cost $4000, and is made of 400 pure white and heavily-furred skins, imported from Siberia, of that highest grade which is called "royal," because it is used to make the robes of state worn by the Kings and Emperors of Europe.

The design, is a Russian Cossack model, with a spacious yoke in which ermine was lavished as prodigally as if the material had been silk, and with a collar of dazzling white Arctic fox, one of the rarest of furs. There is a broad ermine sash which begins at a point in the middle of the back and knots in front. The possession of this sash alone would make almost any woman happy. The cuffs, which can be turned back, are of ermine.

The cloak is lined with brocaded crepe, and the edges of the garment,

Miss Anheuser has worn the wrap frequently this winter at the theater and at evening social affairs, and her appearance has always created a profound stir of admiration. She is regarded as one of the prettiest girls of this city, and is a niece of Mrs. Adolphus Busch.

The coat was made after a Russian model by a St. Louis store designer, who declares that in many years of attending exhibitions of ermine garments he has never seen a cloak surpassing Miss Anheuser's. It is easily the costliest and most beautiful ermine wrap in St. Louis, and it is a matter of dispute among local furriers as to whether it was not more expensive even than two or three cloaks of Russian sable which are owned by rich St. Louis women.

THIRTY leaderless soldiers, their officers murdered by treachery, defended themselves with crockery and baseball bats against hundreds of sava es armed with bolos and returned into zone of ambush-firing to save their flag & All but three were massacred & Famous Carabao dinner song voices army's sentiments, says officer.

TOT all of the sanguinary and heroic tragedies of the American occupation of the Philippines have become known to the public. Many of them are buried in bloody graves in the islands, or survive in the memories of a few who know. One such story, told by an officer of the regular army-a story of smiling and treacherous viltainy, of noble valor against murder ous odds, of the willing sacrifice of life for the United States flag -is the subject of this page.

The narrator applauds the thorough heartiness with which officers of the army and navy, at the dinner of the Carabao Society in Washington last December, sang the now-famous lyric:

Damn, damn, damn the insurrectos, Cross-eyed, kakiack ladrones. Underneath the starry flag, Civilize 'em with a Krag, And return us to our beloved homes.

This was the chorus of a marching song popular among the American troops during the early years of the occupation. It was a topical song, to which stanzas were added "ad libitum." One line, as some may recall, sung when ex-President Taft was Governor-General of the . Philippines, referred thus to the "little brown brother": "He may be a brother o'. William H. Taft, but he ain't no brother o' mine."

President Wilson directed Secretaries Garrison and Daniels to administer "a very serious reprimand to those army and navy officers who were responsible for the program of the Carabao dinner.

It is with reference to this incident that Col. George Harvey, in the North American Review, relates the following story, as told him by an army officer formerly on duty in the Philip-

"Old Man" of Llewellyn Park knows every detail of his intricate business, censors all phonograph records, makes advertising contracts and works from 1:0 to 140 hours

a week - New anecdotes of the great inventor

ARK SILVERSTONE, an Olive street music dealer, is back from a trip to Orange, N. J., where he spent several days as the guest of Thomas A. Edison. Although libraries have been written about this greatest and most versatile of all inventors, nothing has afforded a more interesting and intimate glimpse of Edison than the stories Silverstone tells of his visit.

The St. Louisan was one of 25 guests from all over the United States, with whom Edison has close business relations. The 25 gave a banquet to Edison at Orange in honor of his sixty-seventh birthday. With characteristic bluntness, the wizard remarked when they had ended their feli-

Silverstone first became acquainted with Edison seven years ago and has visited him annually since. He says that on the day he was presented, the inventor, as soon as he heard he was from St. Louis, as ed. "How is my old friend, Pat Conrov?" referring to another St. Louis music dealer. And the first thing Edison asked him when he went back this time was as to how "Pat-Conroy" was getting along.

To see the wizard as Silverstone saw him when he arrived at the great Orange factory, it is necessary to imagine a man about 5 feet 8 inches tall, sufficiently proportioned as not to appear small yet not heavy enough to be called big. He wears a gray suit that needs pressing and a white flare collar with a bow tie, a thought awry. His face is full and rather pale, with a broad forehead, heavy gray eyebrows overhanging alert gray eyes. The nose is large and the lips are rather full. There is a slight crease between the eyes, which are set wide apart; but it is a wrinkle of thought rather than an indication of dispos

The hands are those of a man who works, yet are not what would be called large. One thinks he may be slightly hard of hearing from the way he turns his head when he is addressed in a low tone. His own voice is rather shrill and he speaks with great rapidity. Indeed this rapidity of speech is one of his most pronounced characteristics. The words hurry out, as if trying to keep up with the thought behind them and finding it hard to do so.

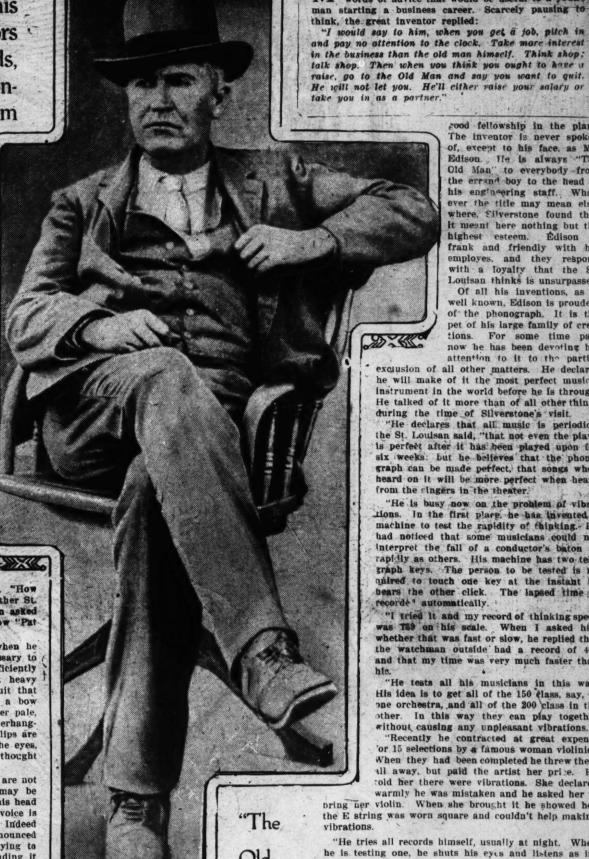

It doubtless is hard. All persons who have known the man intimately agree that his mind works at lightning speed. If a matter for decision comes to him there is no delay. Even the most intricate business propositions

Not even a single phonograph record is accepted for distribu-tion until Edison has passed upon it. He must pass upon every advertising campaign to be inaugurated in every city. Somebody once said that the plant was 98 per cent Edison and 2 per cent working staff.

Silverstone told of how Edison goes about "dictating" a new device. He calls in the task. He takes a pincil in one hand and begins something like this: "I want a core of steel etc. As he talks he Louisan thinks is unsurpassed. Of all his inventions, as is well known, Edison is proudest of the phonograph. It is the pet of his large family of creations. For some time past now he has been devoting his attention to it to the partial exclusion of all other matters. He declares he will make of it the most perfect musical instrument in the world before he is through. He talked of it more than of all other things during the time of Silverstone's visit.

"He declares that all music is periodic." the St. Louisan said, "that not even the plant is perfect after it has been played upon for six weeks: but he believes that the phono graph can be made perfect, that songs when heard on it will be more perfect when heard from the singers in the theater.

"He is busy now on the problem of vibra-rions. In the first place, he has invented a machine to test the rapidity of fainking. He had noticed that some musicians could not interpret the fall of a conductor's baton as rapidly as others. His machine has two telegraph keys. The person to be tested is required to touch one key at the instant he nears the other click. The lapsed time is ecorde automatically.

"I tried it and my record of thinking speed was 759 on his scale. When I asked him whether that was fast or slow, he replied that the watchman outside had a record of 400 and that my time was very much faster than

NUMBER TWENTY: THE HONEYMOON SHIP

OROTHY is now Mrs. Tom. They are 'one day out' on the good ship "Honeymoonia." Dorothy looks just a bit sad for a bride—what?

Oh, well! brides can't grin every minute. She is happy; but everything is so new and strange to her, and at the present moment she is thinking about her mother and father and Bill, back in the city. Do you notice that her left hand and Tom's right are the only hands in their family that are in evidence? Yes, they are holding hands under the rug. Isn't that ridiculous?

The purser, cheeky old rascal, stopped and insisted on shaking hands with them, this morning, and right before a number of people, said: "Still billing and cooing?"

Dorothy was fussed to death, but Tom just grinned. Dorothy can't understand why people look at them and smile. She doesn't stop to remember how easy it was for Tom and herself to piek out two other bridal couples on board.

When they feturn to America in a year from now they will sail on the "Marriedtania," a sister ship to the "Honeymoonia." They look very much alike, these two ships; but there is a difference!

How Ghosts Paint Portraits on Canvas

Spirit artists with invisible brushes apparently make a canvas glow with color before the eyes of the wondering spectator and deliver a finished picture with the pigments still wet-The trick exposed by investigator

N interesting exposure of one of the most baffling mysteries with which charlatans and fake spiritualists have deceived the credulous, often to the great financial profit of the deceiver, has been printed by David P. Abbott of Chicago. It is the secret of the so-called spirit portrait, a secret which has defied many investigators, even when their efforts were spurred by offers of handsome purses if they should succeed. Abbott has long been known as an exposer of fakes. For 30 years he practiced as a "spirit medium," and in that time learned most of the tricks of the faker. Several years ago he printed a book in which many of the secrets were revealed.

By a rather sardonic turn of circumstances, his greatest discovery resulted in pecuniary gain to another. After he had mastered the secret of the "spirit portrait," he gave the result of his inquiries to an Englishman who, he thought, was a fellow investigator. The Englishman promoted a vaudeville adaptation of the mystery and had received royalties running up into the thousands of dollars before Abbott learned of the use to which his information had been put.

The spirit portrait mystery challenged detection for several years. Two women who advertised themselves as mediums practiced it in Chicago and Kansas City. Hundreds of persons are believed to have been confirmed in their beliefs in spiritualism by it. Countless others, unwilling to believe that the souls of the de-parted are hovering about the earth, simply confessed they couldn't understand this phenomenon and let it

A letter from a Kansas Cityan in 1908 first enlisted Abbott's interest in the affair. The letter declared that it was "the greatest mystery in the world," and said that one man in Kansas City had spent $10,000 for pictures, which, he was convinced, had been painted by spirit artists. The writer said of his own ex-

"Having met by appointment at the residence of the mediums, my doctor friend and myself were ushered into a studio. The object was to secure a portrait in colors of the doctor's sister, who was killed some six years ago in a runaway accident. "The doctor was requested by the mediums to select two canvases from a dozen or more that were leaning against the wall. This he did from the middle of the pile, holding them up to the light and rubbing his hand over them to determine if there was any coating or film over them. I also examined them very closely and was satisfied there was not. One of the mediums now took the framed canvases and placing them face to face, stood them upon a small table in front of a window which looked out on one of the city's principal boulevards. The canvases were leaned against the window.

"One of the mediums stood upon a chair and pulled the blind to the top of the canvases, and then each of them drew a soft curtain from the side of the window to the frames, thus darkening all of the window except where the light came through the canvases; they appeared clear and white. My friend held a picture of his dead sister in his hand, being requested to fix the expres sion of her face in his mind. We were seated directly in front of the window, not more than three feet from the canvases, while the mediums stood at the two sides of the table holding them and

"After waiting possibly five minutes, one of the mediums said, 'You will observe how the canvases are drawing. They are being sized.' The front canvas did seem to be stretching on the frame, making a slight noise, as if a thumb were being drawn along the side of the frame. Presently the noise stopped, and there appeared on the outer edge of the canvas, or rather between the two, a slight shadow.

"I did not notice the shadow until our attention was called to it by the mediums. It continued to darken while the center remained white and clear. In a few minutes, I noticed a pale pink almost directly in the center. It seemed like the glow of sunrise, but there was no form. Next we noticed an outline. The face was forming. We noticed

A woman's face was looking at us from between the canvases, beautiful in form and feature. • • The doctor now saw a string of beads around the neck, one bead at a time. "My friend had enclosed a photograph of his sister. together with a letter to her spirit, between slates for a time, in the presence of these mediums, some three days before the sitting. * * * We compared the, portrait with the photograph; the psychics asked to look at it, claiming never to have seen it before. The lineness was perfect. There seemed to have been no opportunity for trickery and fraud."

Similar experiences came to Abbott from other serv ices. Many of them were from persons of education and intelligence. All of them agreed if there was any trick back of it, they had been unable to get any indication of it by the most acute observa-tion. Abbott went to work on the theory that if the thing could be done as described by purely material agencies, it would be safe to assume that there was nothing supernatural in what the mediums had done

It was only after many experiments of different kinds that the truth dawned upon him. When it did come, the whole mystery was so ridiculously simple that he was amazed, with all of his knowledge of the tricks of the fakers, that he hadn't hit upon it before. He had spent a great deal of time trying to find out whether the pictures could be painted by some spray system. examination of the building in which the Kansas City demonstration had taken ce revealed no traps or opportunities for concealed rates to help the mediums. He got his correct wondering why two canvases were

He took two pieces of canvas, one of which was blank and the other of which bore a painted picture. He re-constructed the conditions as detailed in the Kansas City case. The white canvas he put in front and the painted one behind. They were several inches apart when he first looked. The white canvas was blank. Then he moved the painted one up a little closer. He was startled to see a hazy outline on the white surface. He moved the painted one closer by degrees. As it advanced, a picture appeared upon the white surface, gradually growing more distinct until at last, when it was in perfect focus, the light shining through the picture on the painted canvas made the picture appear as if on the surface of the white one. The eyes actualy seemed to open as the focus progressed.

To Abbott the rest of the explanation was simple. He was familiar enough with the ways of experts to know that their skill would enable them to substitute a painted canvas for one of the white ones, in such a way that an inexperienced observer, no matter how closely he might look, could never discover it.

Every person who is familiar with the methods of the best stage magicians of the day knows that their dex-terity in such matters is amazing. The fact that the picture in the Kansas City ease apparently had remained sealed between slates, meant nothing. Clever prestidigitators could have removed it and replaced it half a dozen times in an hour without detection, to say nothing of removing it once in several days in order to paint a copy of the photograph.

The fact that the medium was a woman would simplify matters. With properly The fact that the medium was a woman would simplify matters. With properly constructed skirts, she could carry the copied portrait about with her. The cloth with which the canvases were covered when the work was finished probably was the one for which the painting had been substituted. It was merely used in the covering process to disarm suspicion, in case the speciator afterwards should remember that there was another piece of canvas in the room, although for that matter a clever juggler could have put the substituted cloth in the same place of concealment in which she had carried the copy.

In the case of a credulous person, who did not have a copy of the person to be pictured, almost any portrait would be taken as that of the long dead one. All that remained was a necessary skill in manipulating the mechanism that controlled the light effects without exciting suspicion. To do this while at the same time diverting the attention of the victim by conversations and gestures would be only the fundamentals of the necromancer's art.

So confident is Abbott that he has correctly explained the mystery that he has

CENOR and Senora Casimiro Ain. of Buenos Aires, Argentine, have been pre-eminently the dancing successes of the New York season.

Senor Ain, for the past decade the dancing teacher to the elite of the gay capital of the Argentinos, made the trip to Paris last year, with Senora Ain and his orchestra of three, to show the dance-loving French the classic tango of far away South America. Their success was instant. Americans abroad saw them expound the true tango for Paris and held forth such inducements that the party came for the winter season. Society took them up forthwith, and today the Ains have succeeded in bringing the real Argentine tango to the metropolis. They are the highest paid dancing teachers in the United States today.

OU should begin to learn your tango at the age of five. You may keep it up until you are 80 years old, or more. Once you have acquired the necessary suppleness and rhythm of body you will never want to stop dancing its fascinating steps un-til the Reaper beckons you "Come!" Unfortunately this early beginning is not possible with grown-up Americans as it has been with our danceloving Argentinos; but do not despair.

All North America will be dancing the Tango yet, as South America-has been doing for so many, many years. It is not a vulgar dance, as some have it. On the contrary, it is beautiful, dignified, charming series of steps that need shock no one. True, some vulgar persons have ex-smooth a dance for the ballroom as the stately waltz. , The only movements of the body are from the waistline. Keep the shoulders still.

The real difference between the tango as it should be unneed and the way they have been dancing it in North America is in this mixing of steps. The hybrid tango has not the "arrested time" that belongs to the true ango Argentino. The figures follow each other in the hybrid tango without stopping, while in the true tango there are a lot of measures played for nothing at all, during which the dancers remain perfectly immobile These alone make a notable difference be-tween the two cances though both have the same genesis.

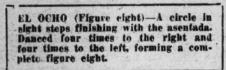

Any good orchestra can play for the tango Argentino, but the real grace and rhythm is gained only by having native Argentinos for musicians. At home we use the violin, piano and a native accordion of heroic size, but for this a cello or evarinet may be substituted. Only with this small but effective orchestra can one give the real life and rhythm to this temperamental step so admired by the Latin races.

My coming to teach New York society how to dance the tango Argentino is due to Mrs. Edward Roscoe Mathews and Mrs. William Astor Chanler, both of whom first saw the true tango as I danced it with Senora Ain in Paris, with the aid of my tango trio of PID let fly a random arrow one day and "A-No. 1," who has the missile took the strangest course imaginable. It sped-swiftly after a milea-minute railroad flyer, darted beneath one of the swaying coaches, there searched out a figure which, artfully ensconced on the brake rods, had escaped the sharp eyes of the train crew, and pierced through and through the heart of the most famous hobo in the world-n less a personage than "A-No. 1" himself.

Not even Achilles would have been considered more invulnerable than "A-No. 1." For 30 years he had restlessly roved the world, probably the most incorrigible nomad in history. In this period he traveled more than half a million miles and encircled the globe seven times. His impatient spirit could endure to remain in one city no longer than a few hours at a time. The entire earth was his highway, and at a moment's notice he was off for California, Australia, Spain or Egypt.

But "A-No. 1," mortally stricken, confessed the power of the little blind deity by tumbling instantly and forever from his perch on the brakebeams. He picked himself up, rubbed his eyes like one awaking from a dream, and was conscious that in a moment he had been metamorphosed from the wanderer, "A-No. 1," into a very different person.

"A-No. 1," the Flying Dutchman of the rails, the rover driven by tireless wanderlust, is a married man and a contented husband, and has domesticated his rambling spirit within the walls of a six-room apartment

Three years ago, on a night of cold an! storm, "A-No. 1" arrived unconventionally in a box car at the Pennsylvania Railroad yards in Erie, Pa. He was routed out by car inspectors, but when they found he was half there was a fire. Their chief, who had no suspicion that he was entertaining his future son-in-law, gave the hobo part of his midnight lunch. "A-No. 1" promised that he would not forget the kindness.

A few months ago the hobo recalled his promise, and having made money out of the sale of his books, went to Erie and took a present to his benefactor. This resulted in an invitation to call, and at the railroad man's home "A-No. 1" met his fate, in the person of his host's daughter, Miss Mary Abigail Trohoski, a pretty 20-year-old girl, a high school graduate and an accomplished

Vanished was the lure of the long road for the greatest of rovers. Forgotten were his nomadic habits of a lifetime. Victories of wit over hostile train crews lost their savor, and there was no longer zest in the once proud title of "King of the Hobos." In turn, Miss Trohoski thought, with much truth, that her admirer was the most remarkable man she had ever met. Soon, like Desdemona, she learned to love him for the dangers he had escaped and the adventures through which he had passed.

Storm and enemy and cold.

Azalea Adair, 50 years old, white-haired, a descendate of the cavallers, as thin and trail as the house she lived in, robed in the cheapest and cleanest dress I ever saw, with an air as simple as a queen's, received me.

The reception room seemed a mile square, because there was nothing in it except some rows of boo's, on the chairs. Yes, there was a picture on the wall, a colored crayon drawing of a cluster of pansies. I looked around for the portrait of Andrew Jackson and the pine bookshelves, but they were not there.

Azalea Adair and I had conversation, a little of which will be repeated to you. She was a product of the old ritual: "Step right in, boss. the sheltered life. Her learning was not broad, but was deep and of splendid originality in its somewhat narrow scope. She had been educated at home, and her knowledge of the world was derived from inference and by inspiration. Of such is the precious, small group of essayists made. While she talked to me I kept brushing my fingers, trying unconsciously to rid them guiltily of the absent dust from the half-calf backs of Lamb, Chaucer, Hazlitt, Marcus Aurelius, Montague and Hood. She was exquisite, she was a valuable discovery. Nearly everybody nowadays knows. too much—oh, so much too much-of real life.

I could perceive clearly that Azalea Adair was very poor. A house and a dress she had; not much else, I fancied. So, divided between my duty to the magazine and my loyalty to the poets and essayists who fought Thomas in the Valley of the Cumberland, I listened to her voice, which and found that I could not speak of contracts. In the presence of the nine Muses hesitated to lower the topic to 2 cents. There would have to be another colloquy after I had regained my commercialism. But I spoke of my mission, and 3 o'clock of the next afternoon was set for the dis-

"Your town," said I as I began to make ready to depart (which is the time for smooth generalities), "seems to be a quiet, sedate place. A home town, I should say, where few things out of the ordinary

EUROPE'S NEWEST KING MODERN LOHENGRIN

OHENGRIN" is the German army nickname for Prince Wilhelm of Wied, who has been selected by the Powers of Europe for the throne of the new monarchy of Albania. "Lohengrin" he is called by his admirers because they see in him all the noble qualities of that famous knight of the Holy Grail, whose story and that of his bride, Elsa, has inspired one of the greatest operas

To his friends, Prince Wilhelm is the knight, without fear and without reproach, the mighty man of his hands, the great captain, the valiant, the chivalrous, the ruler of destiny.

Whether this extravagance of phrase is justified only the future can reveal. But certainly the Lohengrin of legend never undertook a deed of higher emprise than Prince Wilhelm has undertaken in consecrating him-self to the gigantic task of welding all the apparently infusible and warring ele-ments of Albania into a national solidarity. His best friends have advised him against it. Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany has warned him the task is full of personal peril. Altogether it is a mission and a situation that suggests the Middle Ages rather than the twentieth century.

As is fitting in a Lohengrin, Cleanthese warnings have only strengthened Prince Wilhelm's determination. Besides there is his Elsa, his lady, prepared to fare forth into the adventure with him, to buckle on his sword and brand, to bind up his wounds, and, if need be, to perish with him. She is his wife, the beautiful Princess Sophia, who is giving up the luxuries of the German court, in which her social position is commanding, to share with the Prince the uncertain fortunes of the Albanian throne.

Prince Wilhelm of Wied, who is 38 years old, appears to undertake possess all of those qualities which have marked the favorites of history. scribed as a bright, ambitious, fearless and democratic woman of 29 years. In one thing especially Prince Wilheim should please his new subjects. They strength and courage and he has both. He stands over six feet in his stockings and his favorite feat as a young soldier was to hoist a fair sized man high in the air with one hand. When he was an undergraduate in the university at Jena, where studied philosophy under Haeckel, he was renowned for his strength. but was all the more renowned as a student who preferred his books to drinking and duelling. He was regarded as the strongest man and one of the best students at the institution.

"The same determination to get ahead whichcharacterized him as a student." writes one com mentator, "marked his military career on which he entered as a Lieutenant in the elite regiment of the German army, the Life Guards of Potsdam: It was not long before he received the coveted call to the War Academy at Berlin, the distinction which only talented subalterns achieve, for it is the training ground for ure, suggesting leonine strength, and a face denoting The success of such a scheme would depend upon the the general staff, the blue ribbon of the army. OHENGRIN is the hero of the German myth: the Knight of the Swan. He was created by Wolfram von Eschenbach, appearing in the last stanzas of the poet's "Parzival," whose son he was. A disciple of Von Eschenbach wrote a poem of 8000 lines concerning Lohengrin's prowess in ournaments and his areat deeds in wars with Hungarians and Saracens. He has ever since been the German ideal of the beautiful, powerful knight against whom no force of evil could prevail.

know they will have to face the intrigues of Essad Pasha, leader of the powerful Mohammedan faction anxious for a restoration of Ottoman rule. The stability of their State will be menaced by plot and counter-plot. The danger of revolution and civil war will be to them a very real danger. The events of a single day may at any time decide their whole future. They may even lose their own lives.

But in spite of these things they are going. They have already arranged for their temporary capital at the seaport town of Durazzo, and their palace is now half furnished. Both are confident of success. Political Europe is watching the outcome with all the vivid interest with which it watched Maximilian's effort to establish an empire in Mexico, and is only hoping, that the American tragedy will not be re-enacted in Albania.

To understand the difficulties of Prince Wilhelm's. task it is only necessary to review a little recent history. It will be remembered that in the late Ball an War the armies of Greece, Servia, Montenegro and Eulgaria combined in an effort to drive the Turk out of Europe. The scene of the conflict was that vast strip of territory Albania is the heart of the terr'tory from the Balkan Mountains southeast to the Bosphorus. Roughly speaking, it is bounded to the southeast by the River Maritza, to the south by the Aegean Sea and the Grecian Peninsula, to the west central by the Adriatic, to the northwest by Montenegro and Servia, and to the north 'y Bulgaria. Topographically, it is dotted with rich plains, among the most fe t'le of Europe, but it is also broken by high, rough mountain ranges and plowed with rivers.

It has been an armed camp for centuries. Perhaps no equal area of the globe contains less homogeneity of races, religions and interests. Its people are Mohammedan Turks, Christian Greeks. Siavs, Magyars, Serbs and descendants of the ancient Tartars. Succeeding hosts of invaders swept over it. It has been the theater of the bloodiest religious wars. Unbroken peace is wholly unknown to it.

The result is that it is today as England was before the Norman conquest, a land of etrife, owning only him as Lord who could summon the largest army at the shortest notice. Each race has its warring tribes; each tribe has its hostile clans; each clan its private feuds. Turk wars with Greek and the winner has his throat slit by a Magyar, who in turn falls before the rifle of

The result was that while they were fighting over the distribution of the booty, the prize was

The great Powers did not wish them to agree. The rest of Europe would have regarded it as a calamity to see a united Balkan empire in control.

So the Powers did what they had always done, tried statu quo. As the best way of doing this, it was decided that Albania should be made a separate, ind pendent country, to act as a buffer for all the clashing interests.

Doctors at first thought that in heroin they had discovered the long-sought drug which would perform the effects of an opiate without inducing "dope" habits such as are created by opium, laudanum and morphine.

They even prescribed it as a cure for morphinism, in the belief that, while relieving the demands of the system for the drug, it would gradually wean the victims from the habit. Heroin proved to be the author of the most seductlve and pertinacious of opiate addictions. Almost unknown 10 years ago outside of text books on pharmacology, dundreds of patients, illiterate and educated, have told me in their various ways that the greatest agony of their condition is this endless and futile chase of a will-o-the-wisp. They remember the iance of the first days of their use of the drug and desperately strive to reillumine them by taking larger and larger amounts. It is in vain. They are pursuing an unattainable

Another peculiarity heroin was discovered to possess which is not shared by other opiates. In my experience, when a "flend's" system becomes saturated with morphine, it is practically impossible for him to take a fatal dose of the poison, whatever the quantity absorbed. A morphine slave cannot easily kill himself by taking morphine, however large the amount. But one addicted to heroin may readily take a dose of the drug which will be fatal. Let him by mistake ta e double or treble his customary dosage, and he is likely to pay with his life for the blunder.

The physical effects of the use of heroin to excess are not always noticeable to the layman, unless he is skilled morphine, as morphine is the most potent alkaloid, or be given for a period, during which morphine would innarcotic principle of oplum. How the origin of the present heroin vogue was due to an "innocent error" of the physicians themselves; what are its effects and dangers; how it is obtained through unscrupulous druggists; and how the drug monster is today sweeping ever increasing numbers of victims within its grip—these are related below by an autherity upon the subject.

The tablets of or of or of "dope fiends" who apply for treatment are heroin victims. > Birds the Worst Gluttons B IRDS are among the largest eaters of all the animal kingdom. Some birds consume two and one-half times their weight of food in 24 hours. The heron, which has a light weight of four pounds, in spite of its size, is a striking example. One was lately caught which had just swallowed two trout of one and one-half and two pounds. Wild pigeons are among the foremost eaters, and they make a most copious repast whenever an abundance of food is found. Thus a single pigeon picked up 1000 grains of wheat in one day.

NEW AND ODD THINGS IN SCIENCE

Radium

as a Motive Power

HE demand for a type of motive power for ships, vehicles and aircraft which can be generated by machinery working in a circumscribed space, and which does not require large stores of fuel to be carried, and a numerous staff of engine hands, stokers, etc., has led to the invention of oil engines and internal combustion motors in recent times. This demand seems likely to be redoubled in increasing consumption of coal and the products of petroleum points to the ultimate, though not perhaps imminent exhaustion of our terrestrial supply, says Maj. H. Sannerman Phillips in the Scientific American. Under these circumstances it is natural that students of matter and the general properties of matter as affected by energy or force should be called in to co-operate with the engineer and the chemist in order that fresh sources of energy may be tapped and the powers of Nature persuaded to work in harness for the bene-

It may be that radium, that rare element whose properties are being slowly revealed to the wondering converenceon of the present generation, may prove to be a source of that motive power which is so urgently sought for, and in a leture at the Cancer Hospital in London on Dec. 10, C. E. S. Phillips, F. R. S., Edin'urgh, who is honorary physicis to the electrical and radiotherapeutic department of that beneficent institution, foreshadowed ideas in this connection which may bear fruit in time to come. He pointed out that radium in solution always decomposes water in which it is placed, giving rise to an explosive mixture of gasses-oxygen and hydrogen: and he proceeded to illustrate the working possibilities of such a mixture with a small apparatus of primitive nature for the benefit of his audience. Owing to 'be scarcity of radium, he used on this occasion other means of producing the recuired explosive mixture, but the audience understood that it could have been dicated.

The apparatus consisted of a fly wheel in the shape of a small paper windmill with the sails going round horizontally instead of vertically. Close to this stood a gless tube shaped like the letter Y with a short length of electric wire inserted in such of the upper arms of the letter. This represented the combustion chamber of the embryo motor of the future. Fastened to the lower end of the Y tube was enother tube running to a glass bottle containing the explosive mixture of from the decomposition of water by edge" she tells how she did it. radium solution. America Greatest Producer of Tungsten a few years ago at the superi-ority of armor-plate and projec-tiles being manufactured for the German army and navy. Experts learned that no projectiles made for the United States could penetrate this armor-plate, and we had no armor-plate that could withstand the projectiles. The Krupp refused either to sell the secret or any of the product to a foreign nation. How ever, after overcoming many difficulties. the secret was discovered. They wer. blending their steel with tungsten

Of course there were immediate hurr calls for tungsten for the American market. At first all that was used had to be imported. It was not long, however, pefore tungsten deposits were discovered in several parts of the United States, bu rarely in large quantities. A sample of Arizona tungsten came into the possession of Samuel Conger, a Coloradoan, who had been engaged in gold and silver production since 1870. He recognized in this sample a strong resemblance to a heavy dark gray rock he had encountered in large quantities in Boulder County. This rock was known to the prospectors as "barren silver." Investigation con-firmed his belief that the discarded ro''s of the Colorado mountains was tungster

Conger bought a large property in the district, and in August, 1900, announced that he had tungsten for sale. That posit is known as the Boulder Tungsten

Since that time America har jumped to first place in the world's parauction of the mineral. From an importer it has become an exporter, although the annual production is not sufficient to supply the American demand.

Conger's property passed into the hands of a subsidiary of a Pennsylvania steel corporation. Another property, opened up the following November by J. N. Williams and J. W. Yates was purchased and has since been operated by a company which supplies another steel

Some of the uses to which tungsten to put are as a mordant in dyeing and 'n calico printing and for rendering vertable fibers and fabric fireproof. Tunsten is to the steel industries what copper is to the electrical industries

Smelted with iron, concentrates of tenesten produce what is known as ferroinnester. This is used as an alloy in the preparation of steel of the higher quality. As an alloy with alumin copper, nickel, titanium or zirconium has numerous uses, such as the manfacture of propeller blades of grow strength, filaments for electric lights. etc. The present market price of tungston ranges from $300 to $600 a ton, accord ing to the amount of tungsten acid contained in the rock.
